

AGAINST LICENSES.

ize the moral influence of our effort, and render ineffective the expenditure of our money.

A similar protest was made two years ago against the granting of such a license in this place and it was refused by a unanimous vote of the Town Council. The reasons for similar action, at this time we feel to be yet stronger, from the late increase in the extent of our work to that neighborhood and the larger financial outlay soon to be made there by this church.

Further objections could be raised that the applicant, Henry Zikowski, has shown himself a person unfit to receive such a license, the public press having stated shortly after his application of two years ago had been refused, that his premises had been entered by the police authorities, and that on evidence of violation of the law there discovered, he had been arrested and liquor there found had been confiscated.

In the cosmopolitan cities of New York and Boston, the law prescribes a limit from churches and schools within which no saloon shall be located or liquor sold. No. 40 Myrtle avenue being the adjoining property, is certainly near enough to affect adversely the work where children and young people are constantly assembling, and where young men and boys are gathered at their club week day evenings for educational and moral improvement. Certainly Bloomfield with its enlightened suburban population should go as far as the large cities in protecting the youth of an age, especially susceptible to temptation and affected by evil influences.

In view of the foregoing facts the Session and Trustees of the First Presbyterian Church again respectfully protest and petition against the granting of a license to the said Henry Zikowski, or to any one in the so-called Morris Neighborhood for such purpose, etc. George L. Curtis, Moderator, William W. Wyman, Clerk, L. Howes Crowell, Adlai Dold, Wm. B. Broughton, J. W. Piersen, H. Grindel Distrow, F. C. Wallis, M. D., H. H. Uhler, Fred J. Ogden, Frederick M. Davis.

Pres. Board of Trustees, Lewis K. Dodd, T. D. Anderson, John A. Lawrence, Wm. A. Baldwin. Mr. Disbrow also read a letter from the priest in charge of St. Valentine's Church as follows: ST. VALENTINE'S CHURCH, BLOOMFIELD, June 12, 1904.

To the Honorable Town Council of the Town of Bloomfield: I do most emphatically protest against the giving of a license to the one who desires it at 60 Lock street, and to any other applicant for a license in the vicinity of our neighborhood of my church.

REV. ARABOR. The following protest from Glenwood avenue property-owners was read by the clerk:

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., June, 1904. To the Honorable Town Council of the Town of Bloomfield: GENTLEMEN: We, the undersigned, residents and owners of property in the vicinity of No. 774 Glenwood avenue, (property known as the Mission Room), respectfully ask and request that no license be granted for the conducting of a saloon or hotel business in said building for which application has been made.

THOMAS CONNELL, The Real Estate & Imp. Co., CHAS. W. MARTIN, Treas., J. KAMUEL, J. INGELS, JOHN CONNELL.

A petition signed by nearly two hundred residents in Linden avenue, Glenwood avenue, Thomas street, Clinton street and other streets in the west end was read by the clerk and was as follows:

To the Honorable Gentl. men, the Members of the Town Council of Bloomfield: The undersigned, citizens of Bloomfield, living in the neighborhood of the (corner Linden and Glenwood avenue) for which a saloon (or hotel) license is now being sought, earnestly petition the Town Council not to grant a license for the sale of spirituous liquors in that neighborhood, for the reason that since the saloons have been done away with this neighborhood has been orderly and quiet.

(Signed by all residents in immediate vicinity.) W. W. Wyman was present with the intention of speaking in protest against any increase in the number of saloons in the Second Ward, but Chairman Fisher ruled that all verbal protests would be heard on the evening that the licenses would be acted upon.

Notice to Travellers. It is a source of great satisfaction to a traveller to have good travelling paraphernalia—a good trunk, a good grip or suit case, good accessories for the carrying of toilet articles—things that will stand the hard usage they get, and strong enough to withstand any emergency. What is needed is not high priced things, but rather, honestly made. A store that will stick to such a line of goods will win trade. L. S. Plant & Co. have enlarged their trunk and bag department. They put in a complete line of stanchy made goods—reliable in material and make. The effort was appreciated and their trunk and bag business went ahead with a bound. The things are all of the dependable kind and the prices are most moderate. You may get the high and steeper kind, bags of all shapes, of all leathers and of all prices, from the lowest price that a meritorious article can be sold for to the finest grades. Step into the "Bus River," Newark, and see how well you will be served.—Advt.

Handsome Park Bridges

The Essex County Park Commission is going to erect two handsome bridges at Branch Brook Park, one at Fifth avenue, to connect the first and second sections of the park, and the other at Bloomfield avenue, to connect the second and third sections. The people of this town will be most interested in the bridge which is to be constructed on Bloomfield avenue, which is to be an arched one, and men are now engaged in laying a temporary trestle for the accommodation of the trolley cars and public travel in general. It is claimed that the bridge will be ornamental as well as substantial. The one over Bloomfield avenue will be of a span of 70 feet and a width of 69 feet, and a total length from end to end of wing walls of 153 feet 2 inches. Running under the archway will be a 40 foot park drive and 15 foot waterway.

The Fifth avenue bridge will be of a more pretentious character, and will have a span of 122 feet, which is almost twice the size of the Bloomfield avenue one. The width will be 74 feet, and the length from end to end will be 243 feet 7 inches. Through the arch will run the park drive, 40 feet in width; 3-foot paths, and a waterway 50 feet wide. The centre of the arch will be 267 feet west of the west curb line of Lake street, and the south face of the bridge will be located 33 feet north of the present north curb line of the avenue. The arches of both bridges are to be built of concrete and heavy steel ribs. When the bridges are completed the lake in the park can be used for boating and skating purposes from Eighth avenue to Bloomfield avenue, and the drives and paths will be continuous from Eighth avenue to the old Bloomfield road without crossing any intersecting streets. The excavation for both structures will soon be commenced.

Over 6,500 barrels of Portland cement, 3,000 cubic yards of sand, 6,000 cubic yards of gravel and broken stone, and 125 tons of steel will be required in the construction of the Fifth avenue bridge. The Bloomfield avenue bridge will be a counterpart of the one on Fifth avenue, as far as design is concerned, although much smaller and less ornate.

Bostock's Show.

The giant orang-outang now being exhibited at Bostock's Annex, Coney Island, is the largest ape ever known to be in captivity. He stands five feet six inches high; has a reach of four feet eight inches; a sketch of ten feet eight inches. His legs are thirty inches long; head two feet long; weighs an 8½ hat; length of hand sixteen inches, of foot eleven inches; age about 20 years; weighs 174 pounds. Three months ago he was roaming in his native wilds in the mountain fastness of Borneo. He was captured and taken to the Bostock agent at Singapore, landing in Brooklyn last week after a sea voyage of fifty days.

Concerning Proctor's.

In this season of general theatrical depression it is interesting to note that the Proctor theatres' statement shows that in the past year, when most managers have so bitterly complained of bad business, five of the seven Proctor theatres show an increase of more than one-third over the business of the preceding season; the other two showing an advance of business of more than one-half. A part of this additional income is undoubtedly to be credited to the generally accepted theory that in times of business depression the popular priced-house is the more profitable. In just it is due to the fact that through his long experience Mr. Proctor has succeeded in gauging so admirably the tastes of his audiences that he is enabled to present at a comfortable profit, performances easily worth two dollars at an average price of fifty cents. More than this, Mr. Proctor attributes his success to his knowledge of the demand of his various clientele. No two Proctor bills are ever exactly the same, each being constructed with a view to pleasing the particular audience for which it is intended. The "Proctor plan" is to make a special appeal to each house, with a general policy of providing every patron every convenience at the smallest possible price.
